

Mushrooms

Sunday, 12 September 2010 02:25

We had a lot of rain (for us) for July and August this year. Consequently, we've had all sorts of mushrooms popping up. Little button mushrooms, big bell capped mushrooms, teeny red mushrooms, tall white mushrooms ...

Abby and I found this one while we were walking around the lake a little while back. When I first saw it I thought it was part of foam ball that someone had left around but it was actually very securely attached to the ground.

(My foot included for scale.)
