

Merry Christmas

Saturday, 25 December 2010 18:54

Merry Christmas everyone!

I hope each of you is celebrating today with friends and family and whatever traditions make it Christmas for you. We've opened stockings and eaten a breakfast of mandarin oranges and chocolate and sometime this afternoon we'll be heading over to Rob's parents' place.

I've a little Christmas gift for all of you: Look up.

Rob spent some of his Christmas morning trouble-shooting for me and I've got four new banner photos for you to enjoy. You can use the little arrow buttons at the top of the centre panel to scroll through the photos or you can just sit back and relax and they'll change by themselves after a few seconds.

All the very best,

Shelley