

The squirrels have returned to the backyard. All three critters were watching them this afternoon but Ollie was the funniest. Her body perfectly still and her tail flicking back and forth while she made all sorts of funny chirping noises.

I can't wait for the flocks of birds to arrive.