

Oh ... I like this one. This pattern is from the same book as my last two dresses. The sample in the book is in black and I just loved the lines in the dress. I knew I could make it in another colour but it looked so fantastic in black that I didn't really want to try. I asked Rob for his opinion. He said he thought a black dress would be a handy thing for me to have. It looks smart all by itself but will be easy to dress up for special occasions.

My fabric is a hanky weight black linen that will pick up every last piece of animal hair in the house. The cat hairs, being black, aren't so bad but Abby's hair is light and long. The lint brush got some thorough exercise before this little photo shoot.

10 Dresses: December

Saturday, 29 January 2011 03:37

