

Thanks to an extra long wait at the dentist this afternoon I am now more than half way finished the leg of my second Solstice Slip sock. I can't wait to wear these. I want to get them all finished to wear for the Equinox on Monday. It seems appropriate - in a round about sort of way.

I wonder what my dentist would think if he knew I enjoyed sitting in his office waiting for my appointments...