

While She Naps

Friday, 12 July 2013 15:44

---

I've been working on a tummy time quilt for Maisie (there have been a few sneak peeks in my Flickr stream). For the last week or so I've been working on quilting the sandwich whenever she naps. It's amazing how little bits of time can add up to something nearly finished. Yesterday I started working on the blue quadrant and I'm hoping to make some more progress (maybe even finish it) today. Then I'll just have binding and a label left to do before Maisie can start drooling on it.

